

A Guide to Cultivating Care for Creation

A culmination of congregational wisdom, science, sustainability, prayer, educational theory, and ecology, this guide provides tangible ways to act on behalf of your neighbors and Creation. It is a toolkit designed specifically for churches, spiritual communities, and people of faith. Like an active spiritual life, this is more than a static “to do” list; this resource hopes to be a dynamic guidebook that will point your congregation toward next steps, future ideas, and innovations to living in right relationship as a community. Your intention of caring for Creation will not only grow your own heart and community, but will support your most vulnerable neighbors, creatures, and future generations. Blessings on the journey.

	Planting Seeds	Nurturing Growth	Deepening Roots
Waste Reduction	Begin recycling and waste reduction measures (don't purchase single-use plastics or Styrofoam, offer recycling, etc.)	Begin composting and using compostable products	Continue taking steps toward producing zero waste	Sustainability Practices
Food	Begin offering vegetarian options at community meals	Provide and promote plant-rich or meatless meals regularly	Purchase locally-grown and/or organic produce and meat when available
Transportation	Encourage carpooling, walking, biking, and other energy-saving transportation methods	Make energy-efficient transportation more easily accessible for your community (coordinate carpool routes, etc.)	When replacing a community vehicle, consider more energy-efficient options
Worship Experiences	Focus on care for Creation during special worship services, such as on Earth Day or Creation Sunday	Include reflections and messages centered on Creation in worship at least once per season	Make regular reference to Creation in worship experiences throughout the year	Spirituality and Worship
Reconnecting with Nature	Participate in a nature appreciation event (a hike, retreat, garden visit, etc.)	Offer an outdoor nature appreciation / conservation event in your community	Host a nature event that invites people outside your faith tradition or community
Prayer and Meditation	Spend time in prayer, meditation, or contemplation and explore the Sacred Texts from your spiritual tradition	Engage a regular prayer or meditation practice centered around Creation (such as praying the Creation Psalms)	Practice radical Sabbath and provide opportunities for meditation, prayer, and reflection in outdoor spaces
Classes and Conversations	Host a forum, panel discussion, or Creation care event	Offer an environmental book, study, or film series	Provide regular events, studies, speakers, and classes focused on care for Creation	Education
Children and Youth	Offer a children / youth event or class focused on care for Creation	Provide extended children / youth events, such as VBS or camp, centered around Creation	Incorporate teachings about Creation care into regular children and youth education and programming
Media Communication	Include an article or blurb about environmental efforts in your newsletter or community emails	Write or include regular environmental publications on your website or in a newsletter	Join communication efforts with affiliated faith groups or community partners

	Planting Seeds	Nurturing Growth	Deepening Roots
Energy	Begin basic energy conservation practices (turn off lights, adjust thermostats, etc.)	Conduct an energy audit and begin implementing changes	Move toward larger-scale efficiency measures (solar panels, new windows, etc.)	Building and Grounds
Water	Assess your facility's current water usage	Begin reducing water usage in simple ways (fix leaky faucets or toilets, etc.)	Implement long-term changes in water usage (low-flow toilets, etc.)
Landscaping and Grounds	Get to know your land and property by exploring its history and its place within the community	Assess your landscaping practices and take steps towards earth-friendly solutions (remove invasive species, avoid pesticides, etc.)	Establish an intentional garden on your land (such as a permaculture or community garden)
Earth-Friendly Cleaning	Assess cleaning supplies used throughout the building and consider toxic impacts	Research environmentally friendly cleaning supplies and practices	Implement sustainable practices and purchase eco-friendly products as supplies need replacing
Creation Care Team	Explore denominational resources regarding Creation and host a Creation Care Team formation potluck / interest meeting	Establish a Creation Care Team that meets regularly (at least once per month)	Seek ways to collaborate with other Creation Care Teams and congregations locally	Fellowship and Outreach
Community Impact	Identify specific environmental needs of the faith or larger community	Participate in community environmental outreach and advocacy initiatives	Encourage ongoing involvement with and support of environmental initiatives
Creation Care Alliance Partnership	Send a representative to attend Creation Care Alliance meetings	Deepen relationship with the Creation Care Alliance and explore a covenant partnership	Establish ongoing collaboration with the Creation Care Alliance, including sharing space, wisdom and resources
Legislation	Learn about governmental systems and the positions of your policy makers and local officials	Advocate for Creation by building relationships with your legislators through emails, phone calls, mail, and in-person visits	Encourage one another to sit on citizen committees and councils or consider running for elected positions in local government	Advocacy and Finance
Voting	Practice having compassionate conversations about government that are not party-specific	Learn about election-related dates, vote your values, and coordinate efforts to help community members do the same	Join in interfaith and community efforts that support voting rights and access
Investments	Meet with your treasurer or financial team to discuss your current investments	Explore and learn about environmentally and socially responsible investment options	Reallocate your investments to align with Creation care values

Visit www.creationcarealliance.org for accompanying resources and further information about each strategy.